Created in partnership with Ignite Education Innovation
Students from Bentonville Schools

This a map of the Amazeum. We will now take a look at what's inside.

Here is the Amazeum.
It's very big and colorful.

When you walk in the door, there are many exhibits you can play with. First you need to check in, then you can go play.

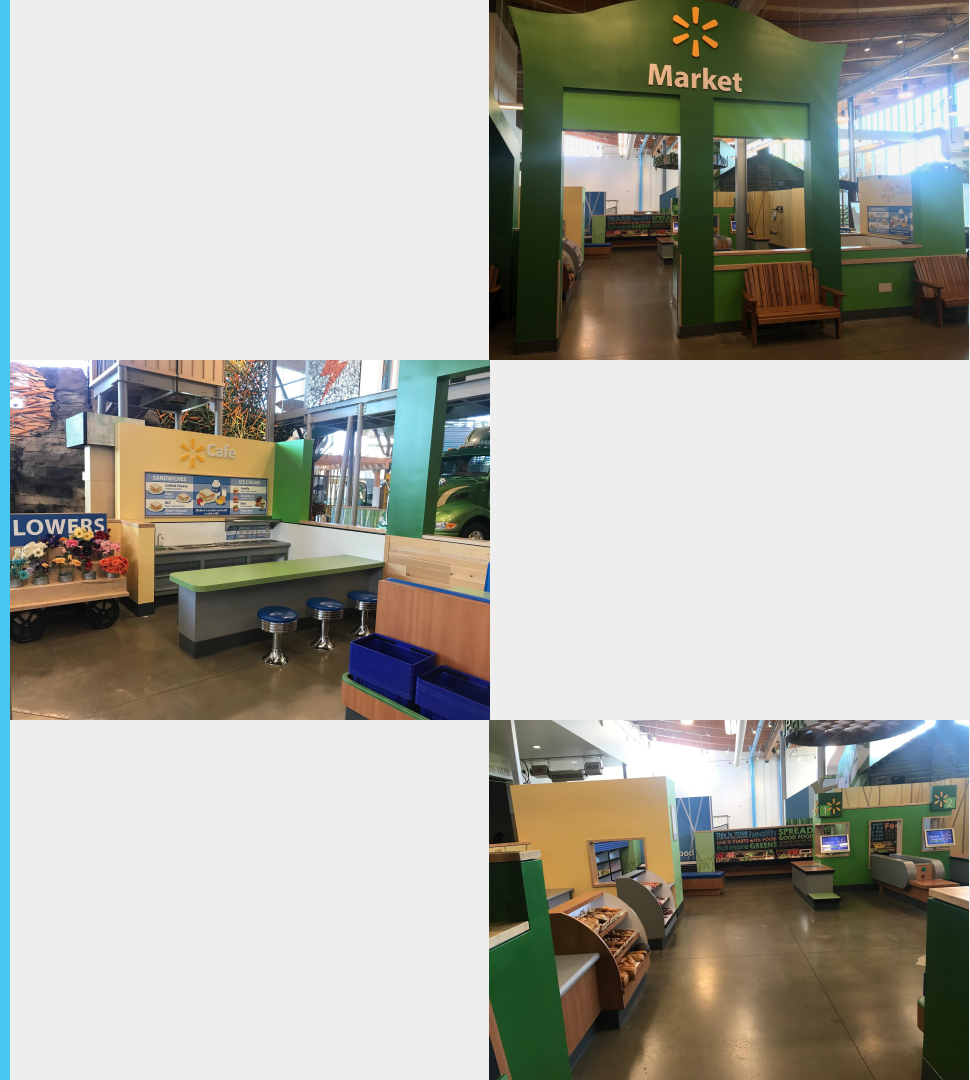

Here is the Art Studio.
You can paint, build with magnets, make a mobile, and play with sand!

Next, is the Tinkering Hub where we can use our hands to make, build, or mess with materials and tools.

This is The Market.
You can pretend to shop as a customer or be a cashier!

This is the Hershey's Lab. You get to do science experiments with candy, but remember not to taste the candy without permission.

Did you know there is a REAL semi truck in the Amazeum? There you can pick up and move different items.

If things get a little loud, are too bright, or you need a space that's calm, you can take a break in our Cloud Theater.

In the Nickelodeon PlayLab, you can play with characters or make silly videos! This area makes a lot of noise!

This is a dark cave.
You can see fish and hear animal noises inside. Don't forget your flashlight as you enter the cave!

In our water exhibit you can put on a smock and play with water, if you want. You might get wet! There is a family restroom to change your clothes here.

If the weather is nice outside, you can play out there too! But let's make sure to wear our shoes.

Have you ever been in a log cabin? The Amazeum has a cabin where you can play with pretend animals and plants.

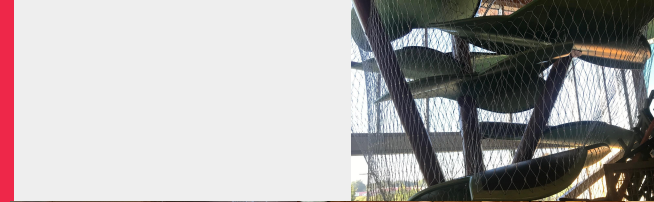

If you see a green sign with a “2” on it, that means these areas are only for our friends under 2 years old. There is also a blue and green area called Studio Grow that’s just for families, so you can’t play in these areas.

Our weather and nature area is where you can interact with exhibits to see how the environment works.

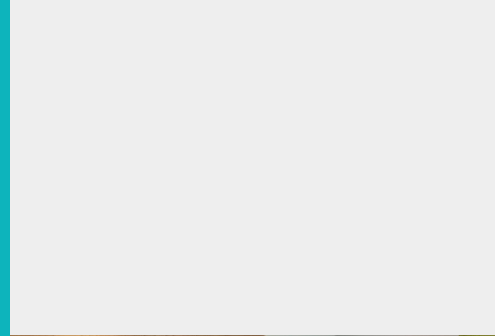

At our Birds Nest, you can climb, look at birds, and play with an air cannon. Be careful on the bridge, it likes to wiggle.

If you need any help look for a staff member. They will all wear a black shirt like this.

Before you go, you can take a silly photo at the photo booth! You might see the Curiosity Corner or the Zing Cafe. It's okay if you don't buy anything.

Then, after playing, we will leave the same way we came in. Bye, Amazeum. We will see you next time!
